

Next Week Brings Girls Practice Goat Skits; Stress on Religion

Sororities Release Titles

• THE UNIVERSITY'S annual Religion-in-Life Week begins next Monday, with Dr. Maurice N. Eisendrath, President of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, one of the featured speakers.

Religion-in-Life Week was started at the University in the spring of 1948 by Dr. Lawrence Daniel Folkemer. For many years Religion Week was observed during the first week of March. Last year, however, it was held in February so that it would coincide with National Brotherhood Week. This year it is scheduled for Thanksgiving week across the nation.

The opening event of this week will be a panel discussion, The Sceptic's Hour, held Monday, November 22, at Monroe 100 from 2:30 to 4 p.m.

Professor Fred S. Tupper will be the moderator of the discussion. Guest speakers will be the Reverend Charles D. Kean, Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath and the Reverend Gerald T. Kennedy.

Dinner for Speakers

That same evening at 6:15, there will be a dinner and reception for guest speakers, sorority and fraternity presidents and several members of the religious council at Lisner Lounge. Rabbi Eisendrath and Reverend Gerald Kennedy will deliver the addresses. Following the dinner the speakers will go to designated fraternities and sororities where they will lead informal discussions which will last until 9.

In connection with this three-day program various classes on campus will be turned over to guest speakers who will lecture on religious themes.

Tuesday Lecture

The next scheduled event is a lecture on Tuesday by Dr. William G. Pollard, Executive Director of Department of Nuclear Studies in Oakridge, Tennessee, in Lisner from 11 to 2. The Washington Ministerial Union has been invited to attend Dr. Pollard's lecture on "Good in the Cosmic Drama." A luncheon will follow the lecture.

All students have been invited to attend a student forum to be held at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, November 23 in Lisner Lounge. The topic under discussion will be "Science and Religion—Friends or Enemies." The speaker will again be Dr. William Pollard. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo will moderate this program. Discussion will follow.

Taylor's Son, Lawyers Get Fall Degrees

• THREE HUNDRED and thirty-three students received degrees from the University Thursday at 8 p.m. during the Fall Convocation ceremonies held at Lisner Auditorium.

Announcement of the exercises was made by University Marshal John F. Latimer. President Cloyd Heck Marvin gave the charge of the graduating class. The invocation and benediction were read by the Reverend Clifton Earl Olmstead, Executive Officer of the University's Department of Religion. The orchestra was conducted by Leon Brusiloff and incidental organ music was provided by J. Russell Mason, University Curator of Art and Librarian.

Judge Gets Degree

Korean judge of the District Court of Seoul, Hwang Han Kim, received a Master's degree in Comparative Law. Also from the Law School was Elizabeth Buntin, who received the degree of Bachelor of Laws, With Distinction.

Noteworthy among the graduates is the son of Major General Maxwell E. Taylor, Commanding General of the 8th Army in Korea. John M. Taylor received a Master of Arts from the Columbian College.

Ph.D.'s Awarded

Eleven students received Ph.D. degrees: Jack Ross Cooper, of Ottawa, Canada; Robert J. Downs, Oklahoma; Sidney Futterman, City; Neldon T. Grisamore, Silver Spring, Md.; John G. Palmer, Landover, Md.; Chas. Edw. McCright, North Carolina; Melvin Santer, New York; Howard S. Stern, New York; Chas. T. Stewart, City; Tze-Tung, Peking, China; and Eberhard Georg Trams, Berlin, Germany.

John Holup, University basketball star, received a BS in Physical Education.

"They're going to the Goat Show."

• THE SKIT TITLES for the annual Panhellenic Goat Show to be held Friday night at 8:15 in Lisner were announced this weekend by the Office of Women's Activities. "Hester's Hectic Henchmen" will be presented by Alpha Delta Pi; "Gone With the Pin" is Chi Omega's number; the Delta Gammas will offer the "Frantic Ones"; and Kappa Alpha Theta will dramatize "Statistical Success of 1954."

Evaluators Arrive Here For Study of University

• MEMBERS OF the Joint Evaluation Committee of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools are now visiting the University. The visit is one phase of the activities involved in connection with the association's periodic evaluation of all its member institutions. The committee, under the general chairmanship of Edward V. Cratsley, vice president of Swarthmore College, arrived in Washington Sunday evening.

Students will very likely see many members of the evaluating team today and tomorrow. They will be talking to students and faculty members, looking through records in the offices of the departments, schools, colleges and administrative divisions of the University, and some members may even sit in on a few classes.

There will be no changes from routine class schedules. However, faculty members are requested to make themselves available to members of the Committee throughout the three day visit.

The final work of the Joint

Evaluation Study will probably not be completed until late in the spring. The General Chairman of the Joint Evaluating Committee for the University will submit the Committee's report to the Commission on Institutions of Higher Education of the Middle States Association, which in turn—after considering the University's self-evaluating study—will make its report to the University.

The members of the Evaluating Committee were welcomed to the University Sunday evening at a dinner at the Mayflower by President Marvin, the Deans, Executive and Administrative Officers of the University and the members of the committee which prepared the self-evaluation study. Most of the visitors expect to complete their work here by Wednesday night, when they will return to their own colleges and universities.

The Middle States Association, the regional accrediting organization for New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone, now attempts to visit each member institution once every ten years. More than a year ago when the University elected to have the Association make its visit to our campus this fall, members of the faculty and administration began work on a comprehensive self-evaluation study of the University. Copies of the fourteen-volume report went to members of the Evaluating Committee; the Commission, and to all full-time members of the University faculty.

The Evaluating Committee works in two broad areas: Organization and Program. In the Organization Area, five well-known administrators under the Chairmanship of John M. Mullins, Registrar of Columbia University, are helping us to evaluate our organization. (See EVALUATION, Page 2)

"This Is a Life!" will be Kappa Delta's eight minute skit; "The Collegiate Game" will be the vehicle of the Kappa Kappa Gammas; Pi Beta Phi's "They Were Doing the Combo" will be offered; Sigma Kappa is presenting "Pogo Goes to Foggy Bottom," and finally, the Zeta Tau Alphas will depict "True Love Finds a Way."

All of the girls are putting a lot of effort into the rehearsals, which are going full force, Miss Kirkbride's office said. Each of the skits will be judged on the basis of originality, presentation, cleverness and audience appeal. Cups will be awarded to the sororities placing first, second and third among the competitors.

Tickets at 25 cents can now be purchased for the seventy-two

• MR. L. POE Leggett's play production group will present a one-act play at the Players' meeting tonight in Studio A, Lisner. Everyone, student or faculty, has been invited to attend. The play is a Mexican comedy called "Sunday Costs Five Pesos" by Josephine Niggle.

Loydell Jones, Ruth Horenstein, Barbara Schoech, Mariette Schneider and Bernie Fassel-tiner will be in the cast of the play which will be presented in arena style.

minutes of satire, song and villainy at the Student Union from 12 to 2 and from 5 to 6 p.m. Tickets can also be obtained from sorority girls who will be wearing Goat Show signs to publicize the affair.

Tickets Sold

Tickets will also be on sale Friday evening at Lisner Auditorium until 8:15. Everyone has been invited. The United Church Women will be collecting cans of food for distribution to the needy and Panhel is asking each member of the audience to bring a can of food as part of his admission.

Announcement will be made by Colonial Boosters of the three fraternities and three sororities leading in the race for the Boosters Cups. Presentation will be made at the first home basketball game.

The name of Loretta May Stallings as one of the Goat Show judges was given in error last week. Mrs. Joan Elizabeth Schellentrager, Professor of Physical Education, will serve with Dean Carr Lavell and sportscaster Jim Gibbons.

Law Day Proves Success; Law Case Winners Get Club Awards

• THE FIRST ANNUAL Law Day, designed to promote legal education and create better understanding among the students, alumni and faculty, was successfully held last Saturday.

Starting the Law Day program was the Van Vleck Case Club Final Competition, which was argued before a court including the Honorable Harold M. Stephens, Chief Judge, and the Honorable John A. Danaher, Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, and the Honorable Marvin Jones, Chief Judge of the United States Court of Claims.

Dean John T. Fey, Dean of the Law School, awarded prizes to the winners, who were Neal E. Williams, William C. Archbold, Jr., John F. Evell and Samuel W. Crabbe.

Luncheon Lecture Club

Luncheon at the Willard Hotel followed the Case Club Finals. The Honorable Walter M. Bastian, Judge of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, spoke on "The Trends of Legal Education." He emphasized the need of law to man, stating, "Man lived without penicillin for thousands of years, but civilization did not develop without law." The Honorable Mr. Bastian reflected his views on the new University law center and the recent merger with National University.

The afternoon panel discussions began promptly after luncheon in Lisner auditorium. One panel was entitled, "Tests for Criminal Insanity: Implications of the Durham and Stewart Cases." The other panel discussion was on "The Status of the Federal Hearing Examiner."

Close of Day

In the evening, a reception was held at the Washington Hotel Hall of Nations, sponsored by the legal sororities and fraternities. It was followed by the Law Day Ball which brought the Law Day program to a close. The dance featured the music of Frank Flanagan and his orchestra from 9:30 to 12:30. Intermission entertainment was provided by male quartets from the University's Traveling Troubadours.

Religious Clubs Hold Meetings, Socialize

- THE RELIGIOUS COUNCIL, a little known but important organization forms the nucleus from which the several religious clubs of the University function.

The purpose of these organizations on campus is to form a closer link between the student and his church, to promote fellowship and to promote interfaith relationships. Most of the groups meet regularly, have speakers at the meetings and have off campus advisors.

Several of the groups are: The Baptist Student Union, which meets at noon on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays and has some 7 p.m. meetings on Thursday. They have fall and spring weekend retreats at Prince Union Forest in Quantico. They have musical programs and this Christmas will have a formal banquet.

Lutheran Group

The Lutheran Student Association, whose advisor is the Rev. Walter G. Marz. They have discussion groups and speakers at their meetings. The President is Gretchen Arnold.

The Westminister Foundation, the Presbyterian group. It has been reorganized this year. The advisor is the Rev. James Bryden, author of the well known book, "Letters to Mark."

The Hillel Foundation (Jewish) whose weekly meetings are held at one o'clock on Fridays. In their house at 2129 F St., they sponsor Monday dinners, a lecture series, Hebrew classes and monthly Socials and Brunches. The advisor is Rabbi Aaron Seidman. They sponsor the all-University Ball of Fire in the spring.

Episcopalians Meet

The Canterbury Club (Episcopal) which meets Thursdays from 12 to 1 in the S. U. Annex and has night meetings, Thursday at 8:30 in Woodhull House. The advisors are Miss Ann Gilson and the Rev. Don Davies of the Church of the Epiphany and Gillespie of St. Albans.

The Newman Club has as advisor the Rev. Lawrence P. Gattety of Blessed Sacrament.

zation and administration, finance and plant, student personnel, admissions, records, and athletics.

President Calvert N. Ellis of Juniata College is the Program Area Chairman. He heads a group of 23 distinguished scholars and administrators who are helping us make an evaluation of the University's colleges and schools, and the library.

Some members of the Program Area group represent professional organizations and specialized agencies as well as the Middle States Association. The American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, the American Bar Association, the Association of American Law Schools, the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education, the Engineers' Council for Professional Development and the Liaison Committee on Medical Education of the A.M.A. and A.A.M.C. are represented on the Committee.

Members of the Evaluating Committee are nominated by the member institutions and selected for service by the Commission. Dean Doyle of Columbian College, Chairman Bolwell of the Graduate Council, Dean Fox of the School of Education, Dean Bliven of the School of Pharmacy, Treasurer Herzog, Registrar Nessell, Director of Admissions Sutton, and other members of the faculty and administration have served on similar committees visiting other institutions in past years. According to Dean Doyle, who has served on many evaluating committees and was a member of the Commission itself for seven years, such evaluations always prove beneficial to the schools visited and to the visitors as well.

I.R.C. Hears Talk on European Integration

• GERMAN UNIFICATION through Western ties and possible European integration were at the heart of Dr. Sigirt's discussion with the International Relations Club last Wednesday.

The Second Secretary of the German Mission stressed the fact that political confederation of Europe for the purpose of maintaining peace in the free world, far from being a mere idealistic aspiration, remains one of the major goals behind German policy. The success of the European Coal and Steel Community has given impetus to the strong political interest in confederation manifesting itself in both parties in Germany today.

German unification, the other major goal of the present policy, can be attained only with the assistance of the free world, according to Dr. Sigirt. Dr. Sigirt also expressed his opinion that the USSR knows it will have to evacuate Germany eventually and he predicted that unification will be achieved within ten years.

• THERE WILL BE a cavalcade to the Maryland game at College Park, leaving from the student parking lot at 12:45 p.m. Judging of cars will be promptly at 12:30. This is the last Booster point event of the year. Decorations must be confined to the car itself, and no students may be used as part of the theme.

to be only a step toward this unification. Concerning the new army, Dr. Sigirt explained that the age old threat of "German militarism" is removed by the new army's close affiliation with this government. The right to punish within small units has been replaced by a court-martial system. Soldiers retain their citizenship and wear civilian clothes during leisure. The purpose of the army is for security and defense, and Germany hopes that its presence will add self-confidence to Western Europe.

Officials Make Angel Director

• DR. GROVER LaMarr Angel has been named Director of the Off-Campus Division of the University's College of General Studies, by University officials, it was announced last week.

Dr. Angel joined the Administrative staff of the University in 1950, as Assistant to the Dean of the then newly-organized College of General Studies, and lectured in educational sociology in the School of Education. From 1952-54, he served as an Assistant Director of the Off-Campus Division.

The College of General Studies supplements the adult education program of the University through its on-campus and off-campus programs. It administers in-service training in many Government and Military installations in the area. The curriculum now includes courses in Law Engineering, Education, Pharmacy, and in the Liberal Arts, the Sciences, Foreign Affairs, Business Administration, Journalism and Public Administration fields.

Students can work for Associate in Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees in General Studies, as well as the Master's degree in Personnel Management, Governmental Administration and Comptrollership.

Dr. Angel was graduated from High Point College, North Carolina. He holds the degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Education from the University and did graduate work at the University of North Carolina.

Editorials

Worthwhile Raggedy

• ONE OF THE University's most worthwhile charity efforts is now taking place in the form of the annual Clothes for Korea drive. The drive this year is taking form through the medium of a "Rag Doll Queen Contest," in which students contribute clothes to boxes in the Student Union, with each box representing a candidate.

But the method of collecting these clothes, while holding the interest of the student body, is not so important as the fact that the University is performing two important functions in this drive. The more important one, of course, is that we are helping our desperately needy allies in Korea. The secondary function—that of public relations. Through this campaign, the people in one of the few free parts of Asia are learning more about the University, an institution they already have heard about through their President, Syngman Rhee, one of our alumni.

So from any angle we look at it, we see that the Clothes for Korea drive is well worth the little time and effort that it will take us to contribute to the boxes in the Student Union.

Annual Riot . . .

• IT'S RAH-RAH time again at the University. Once a year 'long about this time, the various and sundry pledges of the various and sundry sororities on our concrete campus get themselves all fired up, change their collective designation to "goats," and invade Lisner Auditorium with some of the weirdest eight-minute exhibitions of their talents ever to be seen in these parts; at least since last year.

They call this conglomeration of sensationalism and even a little sobriety the annual Pan-Hellenic Goat Show, and amidst the warblings and the bumps and grinds you can actually find liberal sprinklings of real talent, or at least of promise thereof.

Getting a little serious for just a second, the one really outstanding feature of these shows, outside of the girls themselves, seems always to be that it's obvious there has been a lot of time put into the preparation of the skits. They really look good.

So come all you lovers of woman and song (ya gotta furnish your own wine) to the annual Pan-Hel Goat Show, Friday night at 8:15 in Lisner Auditorium.

Gina Sprawls Expertly; Is an Actress—Not Body

by Dolores Olewin

• ALTHOUGH ADHERING to the shoulders-back, bosom out, tight-and-tattered dress code (generally used as a substitute for talent or a good script), the sexational Gina Lollobrigida displays a surprisingly well-developed dramatic faculty in the Plaza's "Bread, Love and Dreams." The eminent director Vittorio de Sica not only co-directs this moderately amusing comedy of life and (mostly) love in an Ital-ple who have only dreams between their bread. All of these mountain people own their land, so there's no unrest among them—and little work for the carabinieri (military police), as the newly-arrived, bachelor marshal of the troop discovers.

"Gina is Pretty, Pure

Then, into the scene rides Gina, expertly sprawled on her donkey. Gina is not only the prettiest, but the poorest and purest maid in the mountains — despite rumors and speculations. She sells firewood, plums and whatever else she can steal; takes care of her widowed mother's chickens and donkey; and yearns for the young, handsome carabinieri.

Stelluti yearns for the well-molded Gina, but he's too shy to speak and the harsh rules of his military order forbid him to marry for another 20 months. How de Sica brings them together is one of the funniest episodes in the film.

Villagers Misinterpret

All through the film the officious villagers are a delight. They deduce; they misinterpret; they listen at keyholes and train their

Everyone is splendidly natural, though the middle-aged Marshal is almost nauseatingly charming and far too suave to be reading Italian "girly" magazines. # Student Survives Crash; Coeds' Diet: Muffins . . . Press Freedom Boosted

• ASSOCIATED COLLEGIATE Press reports:

Russell C. Larson, aeronautical engineering student at Iowa State College, Ames, was back at school last Tuesday with a minor neck injury and a few scratches after surviving a collision of two jet airplanes Friday night near Des Moines.

Larson's plane collided with another F-80 Shooting Star at about 20,000 feet. He was ejected from the plane and parachuted to earth, although he was knocked out when he hit the other plane. He explained he probably had instinctively jerked the arm rest levers which control the ejector. Pilot of the other plane was killed.

Please Pass The Gumdrops

Six UCLA coeds are on a daily diet of one muffin, capsules of minerals, vitamins and amino acids, butterscotch pudding, and a handful of gumdrops now and then washed down by a bottle of soda water.

It's all in the interest of science, Dr. Marian E. Swensid, of the UCLA department of home economics, says. The project may determine requirements of the body for the approximately 20 amino acids, the basic "building blocks" which make up protein necessary for health.

She said six girls who lived on a similar diet last semester neither lost, nor gained weight. Their energy level remained high and they had no difficulty keeping up with their busy schedules.

Another Closed Door Open

Freedom of the press got a boost on a college campus the other day. The board of regents of the University of Arizona and State Colleges admitted reporters to their sessions, thus breaking a 30-year tradition of closed doors.

The University of Michigan regents also opened their meetings to newsmen last summer. The move had been proposed by the Michigan Press association and was hailed as a "big gain in the fight against secrecy." Minnesota's regents have always held meetings open to the press; though much of their important business . . . has gone on in closed executive sessions. The Michigan board also provided for executive sessions in their new policy.

Executive session here generally concern matters which by their nature must be private. But the general policy of convening before the press is usually a safe-guard against transacting public business in private.

The tendency towards secrecy in government, especially at the national level, has increased in the past few years. Newspapers have been forced to take publicity releases, stories of what happened from the people running the proceedings.

We wish the recent opening of Arizona and Michigan meetings were an indication of a trend away from government secrecy. The new policy is a good step—one that should be in effect for all government sessions.

Grades Bring Student Award

• THE PHI Lambda Kappa medical fraternity at the University School of Medicine presented its annual award to the medical student who has attained the highest scholastic average in the freshman class for 1953-54, on October 26.

The recipient of this award was Orville Wright Donnelly, who had an average of 95.1, the top in his class of 97 students, and the highest average attained by a first-year student at the Medical School in recent years.

Born in Trenton, New Jersey, Donnelly is married and has a daughter, Helen, aged 2. Having taught science for several years before entering medical school, he was on the staffs of Sidwell Friends School in Washington, D. C., and Landon School in Bethesda, Maryland.

He has an A.B. degree in chemistry from Swarthmore College and an M.S. in zoology from the University. During World War II, Donnelly was a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy. He plans to go into medical practice after finishing school.

• PEOPLE ARE NO longer confining their social activities to weekends, which means that Foggy may soon be spreading itself octopus-like all over the feature page if this keeps up.

Wednesday, to cite a case in point, the DG's feted the Phi Sig's at lunchtime with coffee and sandwiches. Amid the munching the two groups managed to squeeze in rounds of their favorite frat songs... and some party games as well, during which Nat Hauser had some difficulty in identifying Claire Picard by the top of her head and the size of her waist. Yes, I can see where that might present a problem.

Also on Wednesday, the Delts had the Kappas over for lunch, serving sandwiches and cider down in their new knotty-pine basement. People fed each other potato chips, and sang collegiate-type songs. These noon-hour get-togethers are a good thing. Maybe they'll replace Friday-nite beer-blasteroones yet. (If you disagree with this studied opinion, write a letter-to-the-editors. They need letters badly, so it'll look as if people read this rag.)

KKG PLEDGES AND SISTERS parted it up Saturday night at the pledge formal, held this year in the Walter Reed Officers Club. Conspicuously present were a vast number of Delts... conspicuously absent for a while was Sharon Doran, whose arrival everyone was greatly looking forward to. When the girl journalist arrived, armed with a number of bulky paper bags, everyone in the room stood up and applauded. All in all, a very gay party. It wound up with songs... Notably a fine solo of "Nancy Brown" by SAE Buzzy Cirilello, and a magnificent rendition of "They're Laying Eggs Now" by everybody. The hardier members of the crew made their way to the Delt House, when the tumult and shouting was over, and another gay party developed. Quite a few Phi Sig in the crowd, too... They had their pledge formal at the Congressional Country Club Saturday nite.

A HANGOVER PARTY was held by the DG's last Sunday, to help everybody recover from Homecoming festivities. Girls and guests pushed back the furniture and made way for dancing to the music of the popular Chic Wayne Combo... such energy after a weekend is commendable. Yoikies!

ADP and Phi Sig got together for an exchange this Sunday. No pressure in the beer keg made everybody unhappy for awhile, but soon it was fixed and the party rolled along in the traditional way of Phi Sig parties. It was decided that Indian Signs were too strenuous, so Pat Henshaw and Jane Perham worked with Ed Ferrero and Dan Shoemaker on a new game: no strain, just make faces.

NEWS BULLETIN FROM AEP: Some of the men had heap crazy time last weekend at the Uline Arena. After a Washington Lions pro ice hockey match (these boys must be loyal to watch the Lions), some of the boys borrowed ice skates and took the talented and versatile Irv Kesser out onto the ice, bodily. Unfortunately, Irv's talents do not encompass the ice-skating field, and as the others skated away, leaving him wobbling out there in the middle of the rink (amidst loud chortles from the fans still milling around in the stands) he was heard to wail pathetically, "Save me, Oh Lawdy, please save me! Ah cant use these things."

ROMANTIC NEWS FROM THETA: Judy Moffett is engaged to Ralph Redden, a lieutenant in the Air Force. Then there's Ann Simpson, flashing a diamond from Lieutenant i.g. Tom Mulvey. Theta Margie Nichols was married to Tom Savage October 30, in Fort Sill, Okla.

The Thetas are getting plans underway for their Open House Sunday the 21st. You are all cordially invited to come to same. AHA? SPEAKING OF ENGAGEMENTS: Biggest engagement news these days is that of Carlene Parker, girl Phi Phi, world traveller, etc. to Sigma Chi Bob McGrath, bon vivant, raconteur, etc. Congratz, chaps.

The honorable members of the two top honoraries—Mortarboard and Omicron Delta Kappa—had a little dinner last Thursday night and it turned out to be not so much of a blast as a little domestic-type soiree. Girls cooked the dinner and the boys washed dishes.

Soundorama Trick & Treat; Moses Was a Bassoonist

by Joe Titlemar

• THE MYSTERIES of high fidelity sound were unfolded last Saturday night in WGMS' magnificent presentation of the first Soundorama concert. Mr. M. Robert Rodgers, president of WGMS, introduced the program and provided a humorous commentary for some of the fascinating demonstrations with individual instruments and entire orchestral selections.

In the first number, the audience was delighted by a trick switch from live to electronic music: with the solemn dignity befitting our National Symphony, the brass section filed in, took their places and began to play Fanfare for Brass Choir. Then, one by one, they stopped playing, sat down and casually started polishing their instruments. But the Fanfare continued to blare out into the Hall. There was a stirring in the audience that soon changed to a surge of laughter when at last all the brass sections were seated while the magic of magnetic tape recorders brought the trick to a triumphant close.

Later, when the announcer's voice suddenly underwent a dramatic change, he confessed that he had been mouthing the words and was speaking over a live microphone for the first time that evening—illustrating his remarkable acting ability and the wonder of Soundorama.

Rodgers drew a wry parallel in reviewing the brasses. Said he, "The brass section in the orchestra is like the military brass—it's meant to be heard." Going on to the woodwinds, he mentioned that the best reeds are grown in Egypt and suggested that perhaps Moses was just a young bassoonist when the Pahroah found him. Commenting on the string section and their disproportionate number to the other orchestra members, he quipped "God must have loved them; he made so many of them."

Avery ("Mr. Hi-Fi") Fisher, president of the Fisher Radio Corp., spoke briefly, explaining the Soundorama process: how the sound passes from a magnetic tape through a magnetic field onto the playback head, over more electrical waves to the playback amplifier, over stronger electrical waves to the loud speaker, and finally, over sound waves to the human ear. The science of magnetic tape recording, the most sensational development in high fidelity sound reproduction, approaches perfect sound reproduction—as was demonstrated to the Soundorama audience by putting both live and electronic music side by side for comparison.

DECEMBER AND MAY: ACT II

Synopsis of Act I: A middle-aged English Professor named Phipps has fallen desperately in love with a rosy-kneed coed named McFetridge. Phipps doesn't know how to go about courting Miss McFetridge, for, after all, he is a professor in the autumn of his life, and she is a coed with rosy knees. Professor Twonkey, who shares an office with Phipps, proposes the following plan: Phipps will ask Miss McFetridge to come to his office for a conference late in the afternoon. He will be urbane and charming and make frightfully witty remarks about English lit, and Miss McFetridge will laugh and laugh. After an hour of this high-type hilarity, Phipps will look at his watch, exclaim at the lateness of the hour, and insist on driving Miss McFetridge home. On the way home, he will pass a theatre that shows French movies. They'll see the movie, then have an exquisite French dinner, and Miss McFetridge will be so enchanted that she cannot but yield to his suit.

So at the beginning of Act II, we find Phipps in his office awaiting the arrival of the poor young innocent. His hair is brushed; his nails are clean; he has new leather patches on his elbows. There is a knock on the door. He opens it and admits a gorgeous creature with blue eyes and pink kneecaps.

PHIPPS: Ah, Miss McFetridge. Come in, my dear. Won't you sit down? Cigarette?

MISS MCF: Ooh, Philip Morris! I think they're marvy, don't you?

PHIPPS: I do indeed.

MISS MCF: Hey, prof, would you mind opening a fresh pack?

PHIPPS: But I just opened this one a little while ago. It's perfectly fresh.

MISS MCF: I know, prof, but I like to hear the snap when the pack opens.

PHIPPS: Very well, my dear.

(He opens a fresh snap-open pack of Philip Morris. Miss McFetridge claps her hands delightedly when she hears the snap.)

MISS MCF: Hey, that fractures me! Man, I slip when I hear that crazy snap! Do another one.

PHIPPS: All right.

(He snaps open another pack of Philip Morris.)

MISS MCF: (Ecstatically) Isn't that the living, breathing end? Do two at once.

PHIPPS: Well, if you insist...

(He does two at once)

MISS MCF: More! More!

PHIPPS: I'm afraid that's all I have.

MISS MCF: Oh... Well, what's up, prof? What did you want to see me about?

PHIPPS: Oh, nothing in particular. Just wanted to have a little chat, find out how you're enjoying the Shakespeare lectures.

MISS MCF: I don't know, prof. By me Shakespeare is strictly a square.

PHIPPS: Indeed? Well, I must say I find your attitude refreshing. One is so inclined toward slavish admiration when it comes to the Bard. People forget that in many quarters Shakespeare is regarded quite critically. Take, for example, the opinion of Shaw.

MISS MCF: Artie?

PHIPPS: George Bernard... You know, of course, his famous words.

MISS MCF: I sure don't, dad.

PHIPPS: Shaw said he would like to dig up Shakespeare and throw stones at him.

MISS MCF: Did he dig him?

PHIPPS: No, I don't believe so.

MISS MCF: I don't dig him either.

PHIPPS: (Looking at watch) Good heavens, I had no idea it was so late. Come, my dear, I'll drive you home.

MISS MCF: No, thanks. I always walk home. It's good for the circulation in your legs. I got the best circulation in my legs of the whole sophomore class. Ever notice how rosy my knees are?

PHIPPS: As a matter of fact, yes... Look, you sure you don't want a ride home? There's an excellent French movie on the way.

MISS MCF: Not me, dad. I hate French pictures. The sub-titles always disappear before I can read 'em. But if you want to go to the movies, there's a new Tony Curtis picture downtown—a real gut-buster. Tony plays this beggar, see, but he's really a prince only he doesn't know it on account of his sneaky uncle who switched babies when Tony got born. Then Tony finds this magic lamp, see, and he gets into the palace where he meets this crazy girl, only she's engaged to the fake prince, but then they have this mad sword fight, and Tony licks about a million guys, and then he finds out he's the prince and it's real crazy. Wanna go? I've only seen it three or four times.

PHIPPS: As a matter of fact, I just remembered a previous engagement. Sorry.

MISS MCF: That's all right. Thanks for the Philip Morris. 'Bye.

Club Watches Champions Clash; Munson, Olympic Stars In Show

by Peggy Busick

• "EN GARDE!" "This stain on a gentleman's honor can be removed only by bloodshed." Beginning with the days of the early Renaissance, the sabre and foil began to take their places along with other deadly weapons of the age, and a gentleman was measured and perhaps lived or died according to his skill as a fencer. Today padded jackets and blunted points remove most of the danger, but fencing is an international sport, and groups like the small band of University students, under the teaching of Professor Samuel Munson, fence for enjoyment.

Two masters of the sport will meet Friday night at 8:30 in the YMCA, as part of the Eighth Annual Fencing Seminar. Professor Munson, a fencing Master at Arms, will fence informally with George Santelli, head U. S. Olympic Coach.

Students Invited

Students are invited to come and see the seminar, which will feature demonstrations of techniques by Santelli and some of the Olympic fencers. Representing the University in the fencing free-for-all that will follow the program are Vernon Elder, Don Lee, learned the art of foil, sabre and epee from his father in Budapest. Under his father's expert coaching Santelli won the Hungarian national foil championship and then the Austrian-Italian-Hungarian sabre championship.

Coaches Olympic Teams

Santelli's fame spread to the U. S. and he was invited to come to this country by the New York Athletic Club. He began coaching the Olympic Fencing Team in 1928.

Professor Samuel Munson learned his fencing in the Italian school from Anthony Messineo, and earned his degree of Master of Arms in 1941. He won the Biddle medal in the epee and was also captain of the Messineo team. He has been teaching fencing for ten years.

Admiral Addresses New Air Force Officer Class

• ADMIRAL RICHARD L. Connelly, president of Long Island University and former Commander of the Mediterranean Fleet, spoke at the graduation, on November 5, of the Twentieth Commanders' Class of the Air Force Manpower Management Training Program.

This graduation placed the number of graduates currently serving with the Air Force above 2500. It is believed that no other organization has as many University graduates.

Graduates of the class include nine Major Generals and more than thirty Brigadier Generals. One, Major General Frederick E. Glantzberg, is now the Commanding General of the 17th Air Force in North Africa. Col. Carol Swyter, professor of Air Science at the University, graduated from the course in May, 1953.

Program Changes

At its inception in 1951, the program was a six weeks technicians course designed for officers in the rank of Captain and Major. By the close of that year, it was realized that these officers could better utilize the new concepts of manpower management if their commanders were "sold" in advance. Therefore, in 1952, the present day Commanders' Course was set up.

The basic objectives of the Manpower Management Training Program include: an understanding of the national manpower situation, an intensive review of the principles of management, a better understanding of the determination of manpower requirements, and a detailed briefing on the operation of the agencies of the Air Staff concerned with management.

Many Graduated

Since 1952 over 2000 officers, above the rank of Lieutenant Colonel, and a few high ranking civilians have been graduated. The number includes such World War II heroes as Col. David Schilling, now a Wing Commander, who has led formations of jets across the Pacific and the Atlantic; Col. R. Stanley Gabreski, Chief of Combat Operations, Office of the Inspector General; and Col. John C. Meyers, Director of Operations and Training, Air Defense Command.

Dean Joe L. Jessup, Coordinator, and Augustus C. Johnson, Assistant Coordinator, explained the University's evaluation of the program in naming the faculty. There are three deans, two directors with dean's status, an assistant dean and a department head.

Social Dance Goes Hillbilly

PROCLAMATION

• KNOW ALL Dogpatch men what ain't married by these presents, WHEREAS thereby inside our town limits a passel of gals what ain't married but craves something awful to be, and WHEREAS these gals' pappies and mummies have been shouldering the burden of their board and keep for more years than is tolerable and WHEREAS there be in Dogpatch plenty of young men what could marry these gals but but acts ornery and won't, and WHEREAS we deems matrimony's joys and being sure of eating regular the birthright of our fair Dogpatch womanhood, WE HEREBY proclaims and decrees, by right of the power and majesty vested in us as Mayor of Dogpatch, November 18 as Sadie Hawkins Day.

Judging of Daisy Mae and Li'l Abner contestants will highlight the Sadie Hawkins Dance to be given by the Dance Production Groups and the Student Council on Thursday from 8:30 to 11:30, in Building J.

All campus organizations were invited to nominate candidates for this famous pair. The sororities have nominated the following for Daisy Mae: Joan Duke, Kappa Delta; Sarah Miller, Pi Beta Phi; Jeanne Monroe, Zeta Tau Alpha; Joan Hogan, Sigma Kappa; Connie Campbell, Alpha Delta Pi; Percy Palmer, Kappa Alpha Theta; Martha Dodson, Chi Omega.

Fraternities Choose

From the fraternities come the following candidates for Li'l Abner: John Tomson, Pi Kappa; Ed Huff, Acacia; Don Ree, Sigma Nu. Any other nominations should be left in the Student Activities Office for Dotty Mansfield, activities chairman of the Student Council.

Maurice Flower will call the dances, both square and typical American folk, for which the Novellers Square Dance Band will furnish the music.

Informal Dress

Dress will be always informal. Mrs. Mansfield asks students to really get into the spirit of things and come dressed Dogpatch style. This is the first Sadie Hawkins Dance in the Student Council's Dance Production Group social dance series, begun in 1948.

On the Court

Basketballers Make Debut With U. Va. in Scrimmage

by Ken Hirschfield

• AFTER working out for two weeks in the tin tabernacle, the University's basketball squad was finally let loose against the U. of Virginia courtment. The scrimmage was held in the Cavalier's home gym this past Saturday. The score that was compiled after four quarters of regulation game time had G. W. in front by a score of 91 to 41. When the scrimmage was over, Coach Reinhart found fault in the team's passing, defense and court hustle. It seems that the boys tried too hard, and in their first scrimmage were just getting back in the old swing of the game. Knowing the coach, I can say that he not only wants to win, but he wants to win like a championship team should.

Early Stage

In this early stage of the season, the team looks something like this to this reporter: There seem to be three positions already set for the first team. There is "Big Joe" Holup at center. He will carry the burden of rebounding, scoring and guarding the opposing team's high scoring "big man". Next, of course, is forward Corky Devlin, who broke the University's record again last year. Possessed with probably the best college shooter in the country (I've seen no better), the Coach has no problems in deciding on this position. (With Joe and Corky, the University this year has a great Mr. Inside and

Mr. Outside combination). For the third position, I can see guard George Klein as the solid man of the team. It will be his job again, as it was last year, to set up the pattern of play, guard the tough "little" man on the other team and be the field general out on the court. He has the hustle and know-how to do this. These three all were on the starting five last year and will form the nucleus for the coming season. Last year the University compiled a 23 and 3 record, and for the first time played in the NCAA tournament.

Manning Improves

The nod in this corner for the other forward position seems to go to Washington's own Jay Manning. In a tough battle with Joe Petkavitch, Jay seems to have improved the most, gaining over the past year experience and poise to go with his natural ability. Joe has the edge under the boards, so the coach can juggle these two if a situation presents itself. To team up with George in back court, there is another dandy battle being waged between Ed Catino and Buzz Ciriello. Ed was starting for the varsity as a freshman and is now in his senior year, looking for his most successful season. Buzz, who has come a long way since he first began at the University, is playing at his best. Catino with his aggressiveness and more game experience looks like the favorite right now with Buzz to replace him at the first signs of faltering.

Rest of Squad

To round out the rest of the team, we have at guard Ernie Ortiz, everybody's favorite, who always gives his all and is best when the pressure is on. And Jack Vaile, who can "break open" at any given time is still available. Finally, the dark horse is the person of one Bob Goodwin. He has the drive, ability and determination to come on strong and win a berth on the University team.

As a summation of this squad to date, I think that it has the experience, size, ability, speed and spirit to have its greatest year. Reinhart will get them in proper shape by the time the season opens. He has done a tremendous job in moulding together a team that consists of players from New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New England, and the District of Columbia and making them mesh. This might be the year we go all the way.

"On the Court" will be continued by Ken Hirschfield, who played basketball for G. W. during the seasons from 1949 through 1953. Ken is also closely associated with the present Colonial squad and will endeavor to keep the fans up to date.

WINSTON

■ Winston brings flavor back to filter smoking—full, rich, tobacco flavor! No wonder college smokers are flocking to Winston—on campuses across the country! Along with real flavor—the kind you've been missing in filter smokes—Winston brings you a finer filter. This exclusive Winston filter is unique, different, truly superior! It works so effectively, yet doesn't "thin" the taste or flatten the flavor. Winstons are king-size, too, for extra filtering action—and easy-drawing for extra good taste. Try a pack of Winstons!

AEPi's Top Odds; Drop Law School

by Jay Howard

• THE FINAL DAY of touch football league play was highlighted by AEPi's 2-0 victory over the Law School in League A, thus enabling Sigma Chi to tie for first place with the Lawyers in this league.

In a tight defensive battle the G Streeters waited until early in the fourth quarter to score their safety. Erwin Edlitch and Mark Hochman trapped one of the Stockton Hall boys in the end zone, providing the slim margin of victory. The AEPi's victory coupled with the Sig's 19-7 romp over Kappa Sigma throws the League A race into a deadlock between the Sigs and the Lawyers, each team having a 3-1 record. Representatives from these organizations are urged to contact Mr. DeAngelis this week to arrange a convenient date for the playoff.

Over on the West elipse, Phi Alpha sewed up the League B title as they rolled over TKE, 32-0. Marv "Razorblade" Rosenblatt scampered for two scores with punt returns. Marv, who plays safety on defense, has proven to be the outstanding offensive end of the league with his fancy catches. Jay Grosfeld was also outstanding on offense for the H Streeters as he scampered 80 yards up the sidelines with a screen pass from Herb Kushner.

The day's only forfeit game came as the Acadians and the Colonials failed to show up for their scheduled game.

In League C play SAE remained undefeated as they clinched the League title, defeating Delta Theta Phi law fraternity, 6-0. Cecil Charles provided the margin of victory with a 8-yard run around right end.

In other League play, the Delts maintained second place by crushing Sigma Nu, 27-7. The Delts were paced by Sandy Schlemmer and Tom "name in print" Smith on offense and John "Crawler" Bains on defense.

Rudin's Ramblings

by Jim Rudin

• MIDDLETOWN, Connecticut . . . Several weeks ago Dr. Robert Hutchins, formerly president of the University of Chicago, wrote an article called "What's Wrong With College Football?" This article aroused a great storm of controversy. We would like to talk about "What's Right with College Football?"

Last Saturday we saw the annual battle between two of Connecticut's finest small college teams, Wesleyan and Trinity. The game attracted the usual sell-out crowd of four thousand.

Trinity entered the game unbeaten while Wesleyan was sporting a 3-4 record. Past performances, however, mean little when these two schools go at it in a rivalry dating back to the 1880's.

Two of the stars of the game each weighed under 150 pounds. In point of fact, the Trinity seat-back tipped the scales at 133 pounds! The big gun for Trinity was Charley Sticka, a man whom even Frank Leahy couldn't lure away from his small college.

None of the boys on either team were on athletic scholarships. It was a strange sight indeed, after constant exposure to such subsidized squads as Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, and others. The game itself saw only a handful of substitutions for either team in contrast to some schools.

The cheerleaders were Ivy

Football Tickets

• GEORGE Washington University students will be admitted to the Maryland football game at College Park, November 20, upon presentation of their student activity books.

Full time members of the faculty and administration of the University will be given complimentary tickets by calling at the ticket office in Lisner auditorium.

The ticket office will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Faculty and student guest tickets are also on sale at the ticket office.

League all the way—including the grey flannels and the white bucks. The Wesleyan band looked natty in their blue blazers. All in all it was a colorful spectacle.

An interesting sight was the free intermingling, good natured hand shakes, the sincere greetings that the Trinity and Wesleyan players exchanged with each other. As one spectator put it, "It seemed more like a homey gathering than a football game."

P. S. Trinity remained unbeaten, winning over Wesleyan, 26-14. P. S. II This reporter spent his freshman year at Wesleyan. P. S. III Wait till next year, Trinity!

Sail Club Has Bermuda Film For Meeting

• AT LAST the long-awaited films of the Bermuda races have arrived and will be shown this week at the Sailing Club Meeting, Wednesday night at 8:15. These movies are full-length color films and show every phase of the exciting ocean race. This is a rare opportunity for those interested in sailing of any sort.

The George Washington sailing team has been more than holding its own in strong competition. After the regatta with Penn State (Oct. 29) was cancelled the skipper competed in the Greater Washington Championship at Navy on November 6th and came away with a fourth place. The team has had many victories this year, all in all, a highly satisfactory season thanks to top skippers Pete Davies and George Collins.

Club Meet

On Armistice Day the whole club competed against each other in a three-division regatta at Buzzard's Point Boat Yard. Everyone had a hilarious time but unfortunately the results will not be announced until the Frostbite Regatta when trophies will be awarded. However, the following people sailed:

3rd Division (novices): Betty Barry, Carol Ryan, Sally Parker, Liz deFord, Anna Marcus.

2nd Division (intermediates): Rick Davies, Ord Alexander, Marian Diegalman, Mary Jolly, Barbara Harvey, Bob Rhodes, Hans Scheitama.

Top Skippers

1st Division (crack skippers): Virginia Raven, George Collins, Bill Clark, Leon Briggs, Anne Pigot.

By the way, as a preview of one of the greatest dances of the year the Sailing Club would like to announce its annual Frostbite Party. This will be held Saturday December 4th after the afternoon's races. We're host to Catholic U, Georgetown, Maryland, Cornell, Colgate and several other schools. The dance will be held at the Washington Canoe Club and preliminary plans are for a six-piece band, lots of food and an all around good time for all.

Sociology Club Holds Lecture On Alcoholism

• MR. FRANK Feeney, director of Social Service in the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program clinic, discussed the clinic's work and the problems of the alcoholic at the Sociology Club meeting last Tuesday night in Woodhull House.

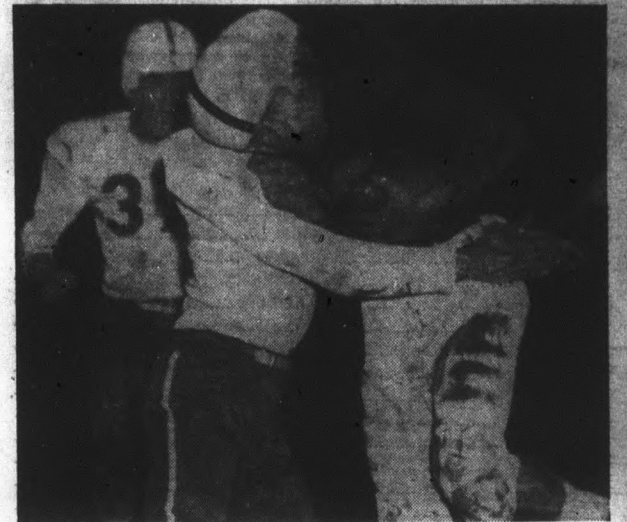

Mr. Feeney said that alcoholism is a major health problem costing the taxpayer a tremendous amount of money each day for the maintenance of the drunk in jail excluding the cost of rehabilitation treatment.

An alcoholic was defined as "a person who drinks to the point of its interference in his own intrapersonal relations with family, employers, friends, and close acquaintances." Mr. Feeney explained that an alcoholic drinks because he feels he could not live without drink.

"An alcoholic is not a moral sinner but a sufferer from a very real physical and emotional illness," he said. The clinic works hand in hand with Alcoholics Anonymous in handling these cases. The solution to alcoholism is not a rehabilitation program aimed only at sobriety," Mr. Feeney declared, since alcoholism is a symptom of deeper emotional problem.

Refreshments were served at the beginning of the meeting. New members were welcomed.

Buff Has Hustle; Needs Final Punch

... show defensive form for Terp game

by Roger Spitzer

• THE END of the football trail is in sight for George Washington—and a lonesome ride it's been all season! Only twice have the Colonials been sidetracked from their dubious path of defeat and with only one more game to play—against Maryland—their losing ways seem to be at an interminable pass.

Studded with freshman and sophomore material, plagued all year by spotty quarterbacking, and lacking a first class backfield star, the Colonials have nevertheless fought a game and spirited season. Sparked by the often erratic performances of Len Ciemniecki, Dutch Danz, and Arnie Tranen, the Buff have made up for their lack of class and material by hustle and determination. But this hustle and determination that GW had failed too often to make the scoreboard and as a result the Buff are coming up to their last game with Maryland next Saturday sporting a 1-6-1 record.

Buff Officers

Once again it'll be Danz, Ciemniecki, Weaver, and Tranen carrying the offensive load for the Colonials. Along the forward wall will be George Dancu, Dick Gaspari, Pat Kober, Paul Thompson, John Ziamandanis and Al Solomon along with pass receiving artist, Richie Gaskell.

Maryland, last year's mythical national champions, have also found the going rather rugged this season. After a slow dreary start, however, the Terps are now approaching top-notch form and are once again on the move.

Terp Losses

The Terrapins, although losing only nine lettermen, lost one of the finest groups of players ever to perform for Maryland. The best backfield in Terp history, of Bernie Faloney, Chet (the jet) Hanulak, Dick Nolan and Ralph Felton must be replaced as well as two great tackles, Stan Jones and Bob Morgan. Marty Cryster, a fine all around end, Charley Lattimer and Fred Heffner also departed from the College Park camp.

Even so Jim Tatum, '53 Coach of the Year, has another fine team this year, lacking, however, the usual defensive finesse always associated with Maryland teams. The squad has good speed, fine spirit and offensively they could match last year's eleven.

Returnees

Outstanding returnees are co-captains fullback Dick Bielski and center John Irvine. Both are touted for top national honors. Quarterback Charlie Boxold, halfbacks Ronnie Waller and Joe Horning; guards George Palahnik and Jack Bowersox; and end Bill Walker complete the outstanding veterans.

Frank Tamburello, sophomore quarterback wizard, has added punch and effect to the Terrapin offensive machine. Al Wharton, Mike Sandusky, Ed Heuring, and John Lazarino—also sophomores—have bolstered a sad tackle situation on the Maryland squad and given Tatum much to smile about. "We won't ever again be embarrassed by our tackles this season," beamed big Jim.

Last year the Colonials gave the high and mighty Terrapins quite a scare, behind by only 7-6 at the end of the first half.
